From Dos Cabezas.

EDITOR DAILY TOMSTONE: A good return has again been made from the Fleming and Lanon mine in Dos Cabezas. They have just shut down and made a clean-up and found that the Galena Chief mine will run from $15 to $20 per ton all the way through in gold. The last run shows an average of $18 in gold. Mr. Lanon shipped to-day $640 worth of gold to San Francisco, which he has taken out in a four days' run of the ore from the Galena Chief mine. They will soon resume work again and put on a larger force of men. Dos Cabezas is and will be the largest gold mining camp in Arizona in less than two years from to-day.

Mr. Charles Easton, of Dos Cabezas, who has a lease upon one of the mines belonging to the Fowler's Bros., made a clean-up the other day after running about four tons of ore, and got $180 in gold, which was shipped from here to San Francisco to-day. Mr. Easton states that from the outlook of the work already done he can make from $15 to $25 per day.

The Fowler Bros. have several of their mines leased to parties in Dos Cabezas and are running their little five-stamp mill for all she is worth. The parties who have these leases are highly pleased with the opportunity that Mr. Fowler gives them to work the gold from their mines.

Seasick Ostriches.

The Norwegian schooner Precis St. Avange arrived at the wharf at Galveston, Tex., recently, after a two months' voyage from Africa. She brought a strange cargo to the new world, consisting of ostriches, parrots, monkeys, tropical birds, and last but not least, among her curiosities are five natives of the Madras, India, including one female. The entire outfit is destined for California, and belongs to Dr. C. J. Sketchley, of Los Angeles, the well-known ostrich farmer. Dr. Sketchley sailed from Port Natal, Africa, on January 24th. He had sixty-five full-grown ostriches when he started, but only thirty-six survived the passage.

While on the African coast, between Natal and Cape Town, the St. Avange encountered days of rough weather and the giant birds all became very sick from the motion of the vessel, and two-thirds of the loss occurred during the first ten days of the voyage. The doctor says that after the ostriches got their sea legs no more deaths occurred. The ostriches are the finest lot ever taken from Africa, as each bird has a pedigree, which enhances its value among ostrich breeders, just as the pedigree of race horses or cows enhances their value. Sketchley says they are the best breeds of ostriches known to the natives.

The birds range from eight to ten feet high and are about ten years old, having just attained their full growth. They are not wild. While unloading them from the vessel, one casually big ostrich became frightened as he was drawn up the hatchway, and when a couple of sailors approached to move him from the box he gave one of them a gentle kick on the breast that hurled him against the sides of the vessels as though every bone in his body would break. The Malay in immediate charge of the birds said that if the ostrich had struck the man with the full swing of its leg it would have killed him sure.

The ostriches will be given a rest in the Galveston Park for several days and then loaded on cars specially prepared for them and taken to the ostrich farm, four miles from Los Angeles. The Hindus were greatly excited when they came in sight of Galveston, the city being visible thirty miles off. The captain says they ran from one end of the vessel to the other, carried away with the sight of land again. The woman has a man's brass scarf pin neatly hooked through the right lobe of her nose, a red glass gem ornaments the pin and her nose; her hair is coal black and hangs below her waist when down. Her features are clear cut and irregular. The men wear white turbans and were the center of attraction to-day for several thousand people who gathered to watch the unloading of the ostriches. The Madras will accompany Sketchley to California and reside permanently with him.

Errata.

Owing to an error in last night's issue we failed to notice in our account of the Anti-Chinese meeting of Saturday evening, the name of Judge Reilly, who made some very forcible remarks, among which was the counseling of the league to proceed carefully, and try and make no mistakes. He stated that all new organizations were liable to mistakes on the start and that if this league had made any mistakes why they should rectify them, and that if they had not made any mistakes to stand firm by what they had done. He then moved that everybody who employs or patronizes Chinamen be boycotted, and that when the names of the same were published, that the heading read as follows: "All members of the Tombstone Anti-Chinese League, are instructed not to patronize any of the undersigned whose names are published in this list." Carried.

It is a noticeable fact that only a very few of the young men who signed the request to Rev. Mr. Haskins to give a course of lectures, attend the same. Eastern Drummers.

One of the leading dry goods salesmen of the United States tells me that there are now about 80,000 travelling salesmen on the road in this country, and that their expense accounts alone will average $1,500 a year each. This for expenses alone means an outlay of $120,000,000 a year, and if you will count in an average salary of $1,000 a year each it will swell the total to $200,000,000 a year. This immense sum is scattered all over the United States. It keeps up the hotels, and is one of the most important items of railroad passenger receipts. The character of the travelling salesman has changed within a decade past. You will find very few boys and fewer drunkards upon the road. The competition is so great and the expense so heavy that firms have to send out their best men, and salaries of $3,000 and $5,000 a year are by no means uncommon.

Said this salesman: "These travelling men sell all sorts of goods. Some of them carry a half dozen heavy trunks and others carry their samples in their overcoat pockets. One man I know gets $3,000 a year for selling the skins which butchers put around sausages. He dresses like a Broadway swell and carries his samples in a bag no larger than a lady's shopping satchel. The best of such skins are made in Europe, and butchers buy of him everywhere. Then there is a man I know who travels from Boston to San Francisco and sells nothing but one grade of boot blacking. Some travellers sell by pictures of the articles they have to sell. Clothing forms the largest class of drummers, and next come those who sell boots and shoes. Then we have the dry goods salesmen, the grocer, the hardware men, hats and caps, and others as numerous as there are trades and factories."

"Travelling men," this gentleman continued, "are as a rule bright, generous fellows. They spend freely and many of them when they become old and leave the road find themselves poor. We have now a project to take care of disabled travelling men. It is a travelling men's home, to be endowed by travelling men and to be devoted to their use. The idea is that each one of the 80,000 travellers is to give $1 a year for the next three years to such an institution. This will make a total of $240,000, and from this we will buy a farm in Kentucky or some other good locality and erect comfortable buildings with reading-rooms, parlors and chambers, so that the occupants can have all of the comforts of life during their declining years. We will further endow the home by a year or two more of contributions and the institution will be under the care of a competent board of managers. This project is, I understand, to be submitted to the next annual meeting of merchant travellers. It has many supporters among travelling salesmen and I will not be surprised if it is carried out."—Cleveland Leader.

Here is Your Help.

Among the arguments used by those who are willing that the Chinese should go but who want them to remain a little longer, is this, "How can we get our washing done." Any argument on this question is solved by this answer: "Purchase an A. No. 1 LITTLE JOKER WASHING MACHINE." This machine is light and simple, cheap and durable, so simple that a child or a weakly or sickly woman can run it without exertion. It saves time in fact a large family wash can be put out in two hours. It washes clean and does not wear out your clothes.
